

INDEX

Introduction.	xv
--------------------------------	----

Part I

THE INSTITUTIONS

Chapter One

THE TAX POWER IN THE TRADITION OF THE EUROPEAN LEGAL SYSTEMS

1. The tax power in the European tradition	3
1.1. The tax power as distinctive element of the institutional systems	3
1.2. The basic features of the tax systems in Europe: patterns of affinity and reason for diversity	4
1.3. The balance between fiscal interest and protection of individual freedoms in the formation of modern taxation systems.	6
2. The power of taxation in the modern European constitutions	12
2.1. The age of the Constitution “without sovereignty”. The central- ity of the constitutional values involved in the taxation phenomenon	12
2.2. The adjustment of the taxation phenomenon in the constitu- tional charters of the European States.	15
3. The coexistence of a plurality of taxation systems and the taxes market	18
3.1. The crisis of the taxation function resulting in the fragmentation of the taxation systems	18
3.2. The coexistence of a plurality of taxation systems: European legal system, national legal system and regulations of the minor local authorities	19
3.3. The horizontal coordination of different systems	21
3.4. The crisis in the ethical consideration of the taxation system . .	22
3.5. The market of taxes	25

Chapter Two

THE ROLE OF TAXATION IN THE EU LEGAL SYSTEM

1.	The legal system of European Union	27
1.1.	The self-limitation of sovereignty of the national States about taxation as fundament of the international taxation law	27
1.2.	The establishment of the Community's legal system	29
1.3.	The European Constitution and the Treaty of Lisbon	32
1.4.	The institutional framework of the European Union: the democratic deficit and the problems of the sovereignty of the EU institutions.	35
2.	The regulation of fiscal policy in the EU	37
2.1.	The lack of a proper taxation system in the European Union	37
2.2.	The presence of EU contributory competences in taxation and the implementation of the principle of subsidiarity	40
2.3.	The procedures for approval of EU rules related to taxation	42
3.	The relations between European Union and national legal systems.	44
3.1.	The orientation of the National Courts tends to be inspired by the theory of the separation of legal systems.	44
3.2.	In particular, the position of the Italian Constitutional Court	46
3.3.	The "monistic" orientation of the Court of Justice	49
3.4.	The dual reconstructive perspective regarding the transfer of functions from the Member States to the European Union	51
4.	The conflicts between the EU legal system and the national constitutional system	53
4.1.	The conflict between the general values of EU law and the national constitutional values concerning the taxation system.	53
4.2.	The limit on the primacy of EU law over the national constitution: the theory of counter-limits	55
4.3.	The violation of Community obligations in the field of taxation by a Member State	57

Chapter Three

THE SOURCES OF THE EUROPEAN TAXATION LAW

1.	The fundamental principles of the taxation law expressed by the Treaties of the European Union	59
1.1.	The system of the European sources of law and the Treaties of the European Union.	59
1.2.	The discipline of taxation power in the Treaty as a declination of the European economic constitution	60
1.3.	The reduction of the customs duties and the establishment of the customs union.	61
1.4.	The principle of taxation non-discrimination of trade between the States	63
1.5.	The discipline of the State aids	64
1.6.	The containment of public monopolies	66
1.7.	The tax harmonization	66

1.8.	The principle of effectiveness and the preservation of national taxation systems	69
1.9.	The recessive scope of the individual rights with comparison to the phenomenon of taxation	71
2.	The legislation of European Union	72
2.1.	The relief of derivate EU law in the formation of the processes of fiscal integration	72
2.2.	The Regulations relating to the taxation matters	73
2.3.	The EU Directives on taxation	76
2.4.	The use of the instrument of the multi-lateral agreement for the EU discipline of taxation	80
2.5.	The adoption of the soft law instruments to regulate the taxation matters	82
2.6.	In particular, the “Monti” package and the importance of the issue of harmful tax competition	86
2.7.	The translation of soft law in binding legislation by the EU institutions.	87
2.8.	A final assessment regarding the use of sources of derivate Community law.	89

Chapter Four

THE ROLE OF THE JURISPRUDENCE OF THE COURT OF JUSTICE WITHIN THE EU TAXATION LAW

1.	The role of the Court of Justice within the system of the EU taxation law	93
1.1.	The judicial power in the European Union	93
1.2.	The role of the European Court of Justice in the system of sources of the EU taxation law	95
1.3.	Brief ideas on the contribution of the General Advocates to the formation of the decisions of the Court of Justice.	96
2.	The main guidelines followed by the European jurisprudence on taxation	97
2.1.	The essentially acknowledging attitude of the ECJ about the VAT	97
2.2.	The casuistic attitude of the EU law on excises or duties, and on the State aids	99
2.3.	The creative jurisprudence in relation to the direct taxes	100
2.4.	The rule of reason and the balance of the European interest with the national interests	102
2.5.	Some synthetic observations on the role of the jurisprudence of ECJ relating to the regulation of the European taxation system	103

Part II

THE JURIDICAL VALUES

Chapter Five

THE EUROPEAN FREEDOMS AND THE PRINCIPLE OF NON-RESTRICTION FOR TAX PURPOSES

1.	The fundamental role of the freedoms of movement within the European framework	107
1.1.	The freedoms of movement as founding value of the European legal system	107
1.2.	The principle of non-restriction of the freedoms of movement for tax purposes	108
1.3.	The judgment concerning the non-restriction in the jurisprudence of ECJ	110
2.	The free movement of goods	111
3.	The freedom of movement of services.	112
4.	The free movement of capital.	113
4.1.	The free movement of capital for tax purposes	113
4.2.	The exceptions to the free movement of capital expressly provided by the Treaty	115
4.3.	A derogation from the principle of the free movement of capital: the judicial clarification of the concept of "lucrative rights" provided by Directive no. 69/35	116
5.	The free movement of people.	118
5.1.	The free movement of workers	118
5.2.	The freedom of establishment	119

Chapter Six

THE PRINCIPLE OF TAX NON-DISCRIMINATION

1.	The principle of tax non-discrimination	123
1.1.	The centrality of the principle of tax non-discrimination regarding the trade between the States in the EU legal system.	123
1.2.	The types of the principle of non-discrimination.	125
1.3.	The judgment of discrimination	126
2.	The importance of the principle of non-discrimination in direct taxes.	127
2.1.	The judicial clarification of the principle of non-discrimination regarding direct taxes	127
2.2.	The comparability of the situations for the purpose of application of the principle of non-discrimination	129
2.3.	The evolution of the ECJ jurisprudence towards the overcoming of the principle of non-discrimination through the application of the principle of restriction	132
3.	The relevance of the principle of non-discrimination in the regulation of indirect taxes	133

3.1. The EU regulations on the principle of non-discrimination for the purpose of the indirect taxation	133
3.2. The prohibition of discriminatory internal taxation on the products of other Member States.	134
3.3. The distinction of the non discrimination compared to the prohibition of taxes “with equivalent effect” to the customs duties.	138
3.4. The implications of the principle of non-discrimination of indirect taxes and the choice of the country of taxation.	140

Chapter Seven

THE TAX INTEREST OF THE NATIONAL STATES AND THE BALANCE WITH THE EUROPEAN VALUES

1. The relevance of the fiscal interest of the national States in the European order	143
1.1. The principle of the efficiency and preservation of the national taxation systems as value of the EU legal system	143
1.2. The dialectic confrontation between the principle of the efficiency of the national public finance and the EU freedoms	144
2. The identification of the national interests qualified as objective causes of justification with respect to EU values in the jurisprudence of the Court of Justice	146
2.1. The creative jurisprudence regarding the causes of justification with respect to the application of EU freedoms. The so-called “rule of reason”	146
2.2. The emergence of the overriding reasons of general interest as causes of justification with respect to the principles of non-discrimination and non-restriction: the tax coherence of the internal taxation systems	147
2.3. The jurisprudential openings to the principle of territoriality	149
2.4. The jurisprudential appreciation of the risk of international tax evasion or tax avoidance	150
2.5. The protection of the effectiveness of tax controls and audits.	151
3. The balancing of the Court of Justice between the EU interest and the national interest	153
3.1. The use of the principle of reasonableness in the EU jurisprudence as a balancing formula with respect to the principle of tax non-discrimination	153
3.2. The recourse to the principle of proportionality as a mechanism for the mediation of the possible axiological conflicts.	155
3.3. Some considerations about the balancing of the national tax interest and the individual rights in the jurisprudence of the European Court of Human Rights	156

Chapter Eight

THE TAX HARMONIZATION

1. Tax harmonization in the European legal system	159
---	-----

1.1.	The notion of tax harmonization	159
1.2.	The implementation of regulatory instruments in the European harmonization.	160
2.	The EU harmonization of indirect taxes	161
2.1.	The general rules of the harmonization of the indirect taxes . .	161
2.2.	The harmonization of VAT	162
2.3.	The harmonization of excise duties.	165
2.4.	The harmonization of customs duties	167
3.	The harmonization of direct taxes	168
3.1.	The general rules of the harmonization of direct taxes	168
3.2.	The policy of the harmonization of direct taxes followed by the European Union	170
4.	The regulatory framework of the principle of tax harmonization within the EU.	172
4.1.	The determination of taxation models as a qualifying result of the process of tax harmonization	172
4.2.	The recessive nature of the principle of harmonization in the EU legal system	173

Chapter Nine

THE STATE AIDS

1.	The general framework regarding the State aids	177
1.1.	The prohibition of the State aid as a measure to promote the free competition in the common market	177
1.2.	Procedural nature and degree of competence of the EU guidelines on the State aids.	178
1.3.	The character of the State aid prohibited under the EU law . .	179
1.4.	The procedure for the judgment on the EU compatibility of the State aids	181
1.5.	A progressive perspective regarding the exceptions to the prohibition of the State aids	182
1.6.	The eligibility of de minimis aid.	185
2.	The tax relief as a possible State aid.	186
2.1.	The qualification of tax relief as a State aid	186
2.2.	The eligibility of tax incentives at a regional or local level . . .	187
2.3.	The urban free zones	189
3.	The recovery of State aid	190

Chapter Ten

THE HARMFUL TAX COMPETITION

1.	The harmful tax competition as an emerging value of the EU legal system	193
1.1.	The notion of “harmful tax competition”	193
1.2.	The “harmful tax competition” as a paradigm of the limitation of national taxation	194
2.	The fight against harmful tax competition within the EU legal system.	197

2.1. The “Monti package” and the introduction of the Code of conduct.	197
2.2. The content of the Code of conduct	198
2.3. The effects of the Code of conduct. The assimilation to the State aids	200

Chapter Eleven

THE GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF THE EUROPEAN LAW APPLICABLE TO THE TAXATION

1. The general principles of the EU law	203
2. The principles of legal certainty and legitimate expectations	204
3. The principle of effectiveness	206
4. The principle of proportionality	208
4.1. The principle of proportionality within the EU law.	208
4.2. The applications of the principle of proportionality in tax matters	209
5. The abuse of law	211
5.1. The abuse of the law as a general principle of the EU law in the elaboration of the Court of Justice	211
5.2. The abuse of law in tax matters.	212
6. The environmental protection and the principle “who pollutes pays”.	214

Part III

THE ANTI-SOVEREIGN

Chapter Twelve

THE RELATION BETWEEN SOVEREIGNTY AND TAXATION POWER WITHIN THE EUROPEAN SYSTEM: THE ANTI-SOVEREIGN

1. The “negative” taxation as a qualifying feature of the EU law.	219
1.1. The evaporation of the taxation power within the EU legal system: the “negative” taxation	219
1.2. The cultural background of the discipline of fiscal power lies in the economic doctrine which affirms the principle of neutrality	223
1.3. The instrumentality of the taxation power to the market in the EU legal order: the “neutral” taxation.	226
2. The anti-sovereign.	230
2.1. The relationship between sovereignty and power of taxation in the European Union: the anti-sovereign.	230
2.2. The dangers of the anti-sovereign: the risks of the assumption of the idea of “market” as paradigm of taxation power	232
3. The remedies against the risks of the anti-sovereign	236

3.1. The European constitution as a (partial) antidote to the anti-sovereign	236
3.2. The formation of a European financial administration	238
3.4. The EU taxation law in the transition phase	240
Bibliography	243